ON LOCATION

Food! Lox & cream cheese on a Leo's bagel!

... and eat it at the "Hanover Square" triangle park.

Bike along FDR Drive to our room in the Upper East Side.

... along the East River.

Room is not ADA-accessible: have to climb stairs,

... go down a narrow hallway,

... and climb 5 more flights of stairs.

... all we have to do is water the plants and feed the cats.

It's a hard job, but somebody's got to do it.

These 100+ year-old buildings are built quite close together..

... there's barely room for a couple trashcans,

... which get dumped nearly every morning.

Another daily sight: the corner fruit-vendor.

The night-time view from the roof of our place.

(The view from our room is pretty good, too.)

Explore NYC! Go to the Guggenheim...

... designed by Frank Lloyd Wright.

There's a long line for the bathroom, ...

... but it is solid gold.

A man with a beard and sunglasses, wearing a red and white plaid shirt and grey pants, stands in front of a stone wall. The wall is made of large, rectangular stone blocks. On the left side of the wall, the words "ENGINEERS' GATE" are carved in a serif font. To the right of the man, the wall curves away, and a curved stone bench is visible. In the background, there are trees and a street sign that says "ONE WAY" with an arrow pointing right. The ground is paved with cobblestones in the foreground and gravel in the middle ground.

Some stations have live music.

It's fun to 'people-watch' on the subway.

It's a giant store AND a distribution center: overhead tracks go straight to shipping.

Manhattan traffic is so bad that no-one drives, which means that the streets can be converted into pedestrian walkways!

The "High Line" -- a former elevated train track converted into a pedestrian walkway.

HIGHLY MEDITATED.

They left the old tracks in place and just let the landscaping grow.

Is that a display screne beneath the walkway?

No! It's a viewing area!
